Zombie Carnage is Coming !!!

Over the last 12 months we have been developing our debut feature Zombie Carnage: The Ultimate Reality Game Show.

The Plot... Zombie Carnage tells the tale of an unscrupulous TV Producer who decides to stage a reality television show, where he pits 30 martial arts trained zombie hunters against a human contestant. If you can imagine the Running Man with Zombies all trained by Jean Claude Van Damme, then you are almost there!

The Trailer... In order to build a great team ethic with lots of cast and crew who haven't worked together before and to also show people what we can do with a very limited budget, we cobbled together £2,000 and went out and shot a trailer over 4 days. Because the trailer was shot over 4 days spaced over about 30 days, we had to pull together a different crew every time! Due to this, we ended up using over 60 people including cast, crew and post-production personnel.

We have 2 versions of the trailer. A 2-minute teaser and a fuller, more fleshed out 4 minute version.

The 2-minute trailer link is below:

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=9cSARiKwtKE>

Our Team... Through the strength of the script and the passion of the producers, we have managed to put together a dream team both in front of and behind the camera. We have an Oscar winning makeup team, a post production crew with major Hollywood credits, some of the UK's best cage fighters and martial artists and some amazing actors with a massive cult following.

Ways of getting involved...

We sincerely hope that you like our project and psychic support as well as financial support is in plentiful need. Please spread the word to your nearest and dearest and even people that hack you off. Feel free to share the Indiegogo, Facebook (<http://www.facebook.com/pages/Zombie-Carnage/174693562543406>) Twitter (<http://twitter.com/#!/zczombies>) and blog (<http://zombiecarnage-makingthegoddammovie.blogspot.com/>).

Thank you so much for your time.

Love, peace and may your first-born be turned into zombies during the first wave of the apocalypse.

BONG OF THE DEAD

For over 15 years Thomas Newman has been on a quest to make it to Hollywood. In 2008 he emptied his bank account taking his last 5 Thousand dollars and invested into his own dream. With the help from friends and family he was able to create an epic ZOMBIE film that has already gained POPULARITY IN 87 COUNTRIES across the globe. Bong Of The Dead is not only a fun Zombie feature film for anyone who loves that genre but it is truly a masterpiece showcase of what one person can do when against all odds.

Edwin and Tommy are two stoner buddies who are lone survivors of a mass zombie outbreak caused by meteorites. One day they discover a great zombie fertilizer that helps grow super potent pot. The problem is since the government has cleared out many of the major cities, there are no longer any zombies where they live. In order for them to try and get more zombies for fertilizer, they must go on a road trip to the "Danger Zone" where they hope to find and gather as many zombies as possible for their brains. Along the way they get captured by an evil AND flamboyantly gay Zombie named Alex who has a plot to organize an army of the undead in order to take over the world. Once they escape his clutches, they team up with Leah Kroaker, another lone survivor who has spent her time since the outbreak tinkering and building things on her farm. She joins the boys and builds the ultimate zombie killing machine in order to help them on their quest. Armed with an array of unique weapons made from scraps on her farm, they take on the zombie army in a bloody battle to the death!

There is more blood and bud in this hilarious action comedy adventure than you have ever witnessed before. This film gives a new meaning to the word "munchies." THERE WILL BE BUD!

ZOMBIE SURVIVOR BLOG

I like to think of it as an interactive novel, because if you go out and buy a book, you may spend a day or two reading it and its over. With my story it takes the reader along for the ride each day as it unfolds which can last months, the story progression really only depends on the appeal of the readers. I am also a professional (but out of work) video editor vfx artist and 3d animator so unlike most blogs that only contain text to visualise the situation, I add edited videos and photo-shopped images. My latest video is very vfx heavy, mainly motion tracking and 3d elements, however it really deepens the reader into the world of my survival story.

Each day passes and I try to explain my feelings, emotions and mental state living on my own, isolated in a high rise tower block trying to survive the boredom and lack of hope. I have tried to incorporate things from zombie films and the Max Brooks Survival guide to try and bring up things that usually go overlooked in these situations. A lot of people reading my blog add their own survival comments into the blog which is also interactive for the reader but again enhances the whole survival illusion of the website. I really do try to make it as interesting as possible and I admit that some days it can be difficult to think up content when all you are doing is sitting and waiting without power day after day, however as soon as I get writing I have somehow already written a paragraph of useable material.

I seem to get a lot of emails asking me how I do all the special fx in my videos, so much so that I found it hard to reply to everyone, It was at this point I decided to add an extra page called "Behind the FX" This is a page that explains everything I have done to create all the fx be it video or picture media. I thought that just by having an fx page wasn't enough so I added a News section and a home page, to keep everyone updated. My blog has now evolved from a simple 1 page blog into a full website and it continues to grow with everyone who joins in to read my story.

SNACKS OF THE LIVING DEAD

The Geekiest link website is now stocking two different types of snack for the Living dead in you and we, at the Zombie Times, can vouch for the fact that they are Lip-smacking, Brain Eating good...

Firstly, the Zombie Blood Energy Potion From the crazy minds at Harcos Labs comes Zombie Blood Energy Potion. Like Blood Energy before it, the Zombie Blood comes in a gruesome IV bag and is a brilliant green colour (to match its delicious lime taste).

...and then comes the Zombie Jerky. Zombie Jerky is a processed jerky made from the finest of zombies (or "cows" as some people might call them). Harcos Laboratories makes it a policy to never create new zombies, and just uses one of the many naturally-occurring zombies that can be found out trudging in the streets. Often times the same zombies that are used for the gathering of our Zombie Blood are used for Zombie Jerky as well. Consider it one of the many ways that Harcos Labs is going green.

Q: Why is Zombie Jerky green?

A: Well, Zombie Blood is green. This jerky used to be a part of a zombie who had green blood flowing through it. Did we also mention that it has a whole 11 grams of protein? That makes it awesome, especially for the body builders on the run. Leave the protein bars at home and bring a bag of this delicious green jerky with you for during your workout routines and zombie hunting expeditions.

Q: Will I be considered a cannibal if I eat this jerky?

A: When a zombie eats a human is it considered cannibalism? Nope. A majority of fans believe the exact same thing towards eating zombies. So at least among those on Facebook you will be embraced and not considered a cannibal. As one of our fans (Neven) said in response to this very question: "No. It makes you AWESOME."

Q: Are there any flavours besides Teriyucky?

A: At this moment in time, no. It took us a while to find the perfect blend of spices to bring out the best taste in our zombie meat, and we haven't touched it since. It might have been also because one of our testers became a zombie after eating a first round of test jerky, but since then we have fixed the formula and have had no cases of zombification.

ZOMBIE T-SHIRTS OF SATAN

Zombie Women of Satan t-shirts are now available. They can be bought thru www.daretowearclothing.co.uk just click on the ZWOS button... You can see all 4 designs on there. As far as this little British Gem of a Zombie flick is concerned it's now available on DVD in the UK, USA, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and Japan ... with a few other European territories close to being contracted.

The film is also now on the UK Horror Channel ... it's been shown twice so far.

SFX SPECIAL... ZOMBIES THE ULTIMATE GUIDE

A Zombie Times exclusive first look here: the people at SFX, the UK's best-selling SF, fantasy and horror mag, are just completing work on a special edition of the magazine dedicated to all things undead, and they've given us the first run-down of the contents of the mag, as well as some first-look images.

Zombies: The Ultimate Guide is an 132-page magazine which comes packaged with three free gifts: a gruesome zombie face key-topper to scarify your Yale Key; a warning sign sticker to slap on your door (perfect for fending off unwelcome salesmen who want you to change your gas supplier...); and a double-sided A1 poster featuring The Walking Dead art by Drew Struzan on one side, and a specially commissioned "wartime propaganda"-style poster on the reverse. (Incidentally, SFX tell us that the propaganda poster art will also be available on a t-shirt from www.sfxmerch.co.uk in due course).

Inside the mag, things kick off with a huge feature running down the 66 must-see zombie movies, in order of increasing awesomeness, taking in all the usual suspects but also covering everything from intelligent American indie flicks to bat's arse Hong Hong exploitation along the way. Another highlight is a "Fannish Inquisition" piece, in which George Romero answers questions sent in by SFX readers (including some pretty offbeat ones – ever wanted to know how strong the prescription on George's glasses is, or whether he's ever watched zombie porn?!) The SFX team have also talked to Night Of The Living Dead co-writer John Russo and make-up geniuses Tom Savini and Greg Nicotero about their careers, and there are extensive interviews with zombie novelists Max Brooks, David Moody, Charlie Higson, Mira Grant and Isaac Marion.

Other features include: a preview of The Walking Dead season two, featuring interviews with cast and crew; an original short story from Autumn author David Moody; advice on How To Survive A Zombie Apocalypse from Dr Dale Seslick (of the popular stage show of the same name); an on-set report from a day as a zombie extra on forthcoming British horror film Cockneys vs Zombies; an in-depth look back at 1985 cult favourite The Return Of The Living Dead; a preview of zombie films, videogames and books coming our way in 2012; an A to Z of zombie videogames; and four pages of the best zombie merchandise, from crocheted undead bunnies to zombie-feet flip-flops!

Zombies: The Ultimate Guide will hit UK shops on 26 September, priced £7.99. If you have trouble finding a copy in your neighbourhood (or live overseas) you'll also be able to order it online – keep an eye on www.tinyurl.com/SFXzombieonline, where all the details will eventually appear.

ZMC² TIME-TRAVELIN' ZOMBIES VS. THE GARDEN STATE

This is a brain-and-guts soaked, deliciously degenerate zombie novel replete with body fluids, decaying organs, and more than one foul-mouthed character obsessed with the word "fucktard".

When it comes to fighting zombies, sometimes imagination is more important than knowledge. —Einstein's Zombie Zombies from the future invade the New Jersey Pine Barrens through a time portal in a dumpster behind a cheeseburger joint. It's up to eccentric, 85-year-old reptile expert and WWII Vet Bob Rampold and his environmental trainee, Arvin Hickey, a former marine sniper and personal injury lawyer with post-traumatic stress disorder, to save the ecologically diverse Pinelands National Reserve and the world. As if Jersey didn't have enough problems already.

Ironically, they're aided by a zombie in their fight against the zombies. Einstein's zombie has come through the time portal looking for his brain. In 1955, the man who performed Einstein's autopsy kept the brilliant scientist's brain in a Tupperware container for years afterward.

Bob and Arvin improvise as they make their way from one rank, putrid zombie fight to another with WWII weapons, billiard sticks, safety pins, herpetologist socks and duct tape. Our heroes are aided by Arlene, a sexy news reporter who quits her dead-end news job and ends up with the story of a lifetime as she follows a twisted, rifle-toting Girl Scout, a pot-smoking veterinarian, a 400-pound lawyer named Hilarius Fuchs, a lesbian couple descended from Jersey anarchists, and a schizophrenic named Ronald with OCD who dresses in pink angora sweaters, pink skirts, and high heels and only speaks in Ed Wood movie lines.

At times poignantly gratuitous with regards to grossness and over-the-top brain spillage, the author tells a charming and silly story while also taking a stick and poking an advertising soaked, environmentally unconscious, ear-bud wearing, technology and latte-addicted world. Z=mc²: Time-Travelin' Zombies vs. the Garden State is a book that asks the reader, who's the real zombie here?

ZOMBIE HUNTERS CITY OF THE DEAD THE ORIGINAL ZOMBIE TV SERIES

Where it all came from... The "Zombie Hunters" project began in Nov, 2005. I was returning home from work one night during a heavy fog, and my street was deserted. (Executive Producer) Jeanna and I had recently bought a garden apartment in Jamaica, NY, from a man who did custom ironwork. Every opening of our apartment is locked-down with his craft, a castle-like fortress of iron and brick. David Dianora and I had done volunteer work earlier that year for Habitat for Humanity, and we stayed in a local Pentecostal church for the duration of our tour. Everywhere inside were references to the end of the world, the "Rapture" as they called it. After a few days of this, it was hard not to think of the end of all things! So here I was, looking down the road a few times, back and forth, thinking about if this was what the end of the world might look like. I saw the bars in the distance and thought to myself that if it wasn't the Rapture, but Zombies instead, our apartment would be an ideal place to hide. I then started thinking about what an excellent movie scene that foggy street would make. All these thoughts collided at once, and the show was born. After discussing the idea with Jeanna during our vacation in Maryland the following January, she told me straight out that if I were to do it, I just had to do it, and not to just talk about doing it. I started the first script the night we returned home, with an opening scene to pay homage to the original Night Of The Living Dead (with a New Yorker's spin to it, of course!) I enlisted writing help from Paul Pinsdorf, who had been writing sci-fi and horror fiction for several years, and we set out to create the episodes. I wrote the character of Bates for my long-time school friend Christopher Murphy, and started plotting the storyline from start to finish. After a general casting call, Richie Martinez was the first to respond and the character of John was written for him. David Dianora and Mark Boutros soon followed as Cinematographers, and just like that, we had a crew.

Principal photography for the show started in May, 2006, on a $399.00 Sony palmcorder, with barely four scripts written. The first scenes shot were the news interviews from Episode Two and the storm scenes for the opening credits. The newsroom greenscreen segments were filmed in August of that same year (albeit on much better equipment!)

Two weeks later, I found myself unemployed. The choice was between the mortgage or the Zombies, so filming my undead friends would have to wait. During the following four months, Paul, Boutros, and I wrote the next 13 episodes and turned everything into screenplays. It was also during this time that I heard about Mike Scardillo, one of the makeup artists from the independant film "GAP". He was hired on the spot and finally met with us only a few weeks before filming resumed in April, 2007. Bernadette McCallion of Pitch Black Dream, my friend of over 20 years, offered her considerable talents so we'd have a purely original score. Ning Ham came on as Assistant Director the following week, and Linnet Brooks and Teri Gudorp were cast as the final Hunters to round out, as Bates' puts it, the "Death Squad".

Filming of these episodes continues at a regular pace, and is scheduled to continue into 2013.

Our many thanks and unyielding gratitude to all of you who have supported us over the years, and allowed us to make our dreams come true!

Now we are at a stage where by there first 2 DVDs have been released and we hope you can pop by the store on our website at:

UNITED STATES OF ARMAGEDDON THE NOVEL

By Jeffery Thomas Crooms

THE END OF A COUNTRY!

America's enemies plot a sadistic plan to destroy the population and armed forces so they can swoop in and rule the country. Terrorists called the Horsemen smuggle in a deadly biological weapon straight to the heart of the United States and release it. The result is a land covered with corpses, bloated bodies strewn from sea to sea. A few desperate survivors battle through the blighted landscape on a last ditch mission to save the country from total domination. But the biological weapon has a side effect, one no one would have ever foreseen, one too unimaginable to even contemplate. Welcome to the future. Welcome to the United States of Armageddon...

ZOMBIE DOOMSDAY DVD DOUBLE BILL

Zombie Doomsday is a live action, improvisational style movie was filmed in just 12 hours and is sure to delight Zombie fans around the world.

The concept was developed two weeks before filming and on set production was completed in under 12 hours. The actors were put in a restaurant understanding that a down on his luck movie star was coming back to his hometown to film a reality show.

We then set up real events (unknown ahead of time to the actors) that would help carry the story.

Some events turned out scary to them while other events were comedic. This film is part "Zomedy," and part scary movie. A making of film called 'Another Zombie Flick' was made about this movie and the prize includes a copy of this DVD too...

STRANGE ZOMBIES, PART 15

THIS IS NOT A MUMMY THIS IS AN EGYPTIAN ZOMBIE!

Stef sent this beauty in, after trawling the charity shops for gold accessories... Mmmm... Classy... She even had her name in hieroglyphs on the outfit but sadly no-one noticed... Thanks Stef, for your strange zombie... We at the Zombie Times Salute you!

Send us in more to the usual email address...

A KILLING STRAIN DVD OF THE MONTH

Yes, its a low budget film....
Yes, it is CGI-tastic...
No, it's not Oscar Nominated...

BUT, if you are only going to buy one zombie DVD this month then I can seriously recommend this one. A cross between an up to date '28 Days' background and with the atmosphere similar to 'Night of the Living Dead...' This DVD is certainly better than the sum of its parts... Viruses, which need a host because they cannot reproduce on their own, are the original zombie organisms. It takes just one rogue human-engineered virus strain to change our species into something unrecognizable as human.

Imagine, if you will, you and your new wife on a cross-country trip, when a tire blowout stops you in the middle of nowhere. Imagine further your wife doesn't come back from a short walk through a nearby cornfield. What do you imagine could have taken her away? What is out there, and what can it be that pursues you so mindlessly?

Watch as David, the young husband, does everything he can to stay alive and stay away from the once-human creatures that hunger for David's beating heart.

He takes refuge with a isolated group of uninfected people, and there he gradually finds the inner strength to lead a young woman away from the madness that is "A Killing Strain."

ZOMBIE MAGE FROM A ZOMBIE AGE

Zombie Mage By Jonathan J. Drake

Life isn't too grand for Olligh Selthnik. When he awakens, all he can remember is his name. With his memory vague, and now having to live life in a decrepit body, he doesn't envision things could get much worse. Join Olligh as he begins his journey on a quest for knowledge. A horrifying adventure of intrigue and deception awaits but, will he find the answers (and the soap) he so dearly requires? With black humour from the off, prepare to be taken on a ghastly, stench-ridden journey into the unknown. This is Jonathan's first book edging on the darker side of fantasy and, as such, it may not be suitable for children.

Available from Amazon and other outlets too !

QUARANTINE 2 ON DVD

Following on straight from the first Quarantine film, this one does not let up with the gore and the atmosphere and as characters get infected, you just have to ask yourself, Will Anyone Survive???

Earlier tonight, a bizarre disease was unleashed in a run-down Los Angeles tenement. No one got out alive, but something escaped. Aboard Flight 318, the first symptoms begin to show. As the infection begins to takes root, innocent passengers suddenly transform into terrifying, bloodthirsty killers.

Forced to land at an isolated terminal, and surrounded by armed government agents, the crew and passengers grow increasingly desperate.

The only question now is how far they will go to survive.

BLOODLUST ZOMBIES

Blood, Sex, Mutants...just another day at the office.

BLOODLUST ZOMBIES ON DVD

Like typical 9-to-5 cubicle dwellers, the workers at Zlantoff Industries are just counting down the minutes and seconds by the end of the day. And just like any office, mishaps are bound to happen: spilt coffee, jammed fax machines ... mutant viral outbreaks. When a chemical spill in the lab on an otherwise uneventful weekday puts the office on emergency lockdown, the staff unwittingly becomes the first test subjects for an experimental, biological weapon and if the mutant virus doesn't spur cannibalistic murder, the passive aggressive office banter will. Featuring adult film superstar Alexis Texas in a breakout role, Bloodlust Zombies is a rollercoaster ride of sex, gore and action. Part office satire, part apocalyptic nightmare, director Dan Lantz's feature length debut keeps the laughs and heads rolling.

HAVE YOU EVER FELT A ZOMBIE?

Zombie Felties: How to Raise 16 Gruesome Felt Creatures from the Undead

Zombie Felties are on the march, and these felties aren't cute at all. Their eyes dangle from empty sockets, suspended by the merest thread; their innards protrude from soft felt bellies in unruly loops and swags of horrible pink floss; their broken skulls uncover a slithery sequined suggestion of exposed brain matter. And the curse of the zombie can strike all kinds of being. Within these covers you'll find 16 projects for creating every

IN JUST ONE NIGHT, THE WORLD IS TAKEN BY FIRE.

A Chemical Fire, a new novel By Brian Martinez. The story unfolds through the eyes of John Cotard, a science teacher who rapidly drugs his life away after a fateful car accident turns him onto prescription painkillers. He allows first his job then his marriage to crumble, doing nothing to stop it, lost in a haze of chemicals. When a mysterious fire sweeps through the land, wiping out human-kind and leaving behind zombie-like burn victims, he carries on by breaking into houses to steal drugs. For John, the end of the world actually seems to make sense- it's the next logical step in his self-destruction. One-by-one he meets the few remaining survivors, including a woman starving herself thin, a combat-obsessed survivalist and a dangerous face from the past. As the group travels across the country to seek safety they face not only the dangers of the dead world around them but of each other, discovering the strange connections they share along the way. The debut novel from Brian Martinez, A Chemical Fire is a minimalist, noir vision of the zombie apocalypse. Available from Amazon.com as a paperback or a kindle edition.

FOLLOWING THE ENEMY AND THE DEAD COMES

THE FEAR

The third book in bestselling author Charlie Higson's terrifying adventure series.
Published by Puffin on 15 September 2011 every kid in the city, and everyone starts to question who the real enemy is in the new, changed world. Inspired by Greek mythology and fairy tales of terror throughout the ages, Charlie is fascinated in how stories have always featured adults eating children. From Kronus, to Jack-and-the-Beanstalk and Hansel and Gretel, storytelling is littered with monstrous adults gobbling up their offspring, and Charlie's zombie series weaves this tradition into its telling.

What do you do once there is no hope left of the world returning to normal?

Can kids really survive in a world where the only adults left have become rotting living bodies with a taste for fresh meat? And can the kids even trust each other?

'All the kids had nightmares. It would have been crazy if they didn't. They'd seen so many strange and terrible things, after all. Disease and death, fire and darkness and chaos. Their world turned upside down.'

On 15 September 2011, Puffin Books will publish The Fear, the third in Charlie Higson's bestselling zombie series for teenagers.

Mothers and fathers, older brothers, sisters and best friends. No adult seems to have escaped the disease's touch. Every living kid has witnessed people they love slowly lose their minds, becoming mindless, shambling creatures. Now children across London are being hunted by ferocious and bloodthirsty grown-ups, the same ones who used to tuck them in to bed at night. They need to stick together if they want to survive, yet it's hard for them even to trust each other.

Dog Nut's crew set out to find lost friends, and begin a deadly mission from the Tower of London to Buckingham Palace and beyond. Nearby, lurking in the shadows, is The Collector; a waddling, stinking creature always in search of more living playthings to add to his collection. Is he just another mindless sicko, or is he a sign that the sickos are getting clever?

As their mission continues, into the den of the Collector's lair, Dog Nut sets off a chain of events that will affect

The Fear, which begins five days before the end of the previous novel The Dead, ties all the pieces from the last two books into a huge, terrifying new chapter for The Enemy series. Set in a dark, dystopian world of kids struggling to survive in a broken world, The Fear will give teenagers and adults alike sleepless nights for months to come.

Praise for The Enemy Series:

'Brutal, blood-soaked, full of zombies... it's ace' FHM
'Higson has got the balance of blood and gore just right' Daily Mirror

'The Enemy scores with its brutal vision of a post-apocalyptic world' – Financial Times

Higson is as ruthless as George Romero; life expectancy is short, no character is safe, and it's definitely not for the squeamish." SFX

'...the creepiness of the sequel make this increasingly like a John Wyndham survival story for ghoulish kids of 11+'

Amanda Craig, The Times

'Verdict: 8/10. Roll on the third novel!' Total Sci-fi

THE NEW BOOK ... WAR AGAINST THE WALKING DEAD

Well, things have certainly moved on since the publication of my first book, The Official Zombie Handbook (UK) by Severed Press in August 2010.

The big news is that my new book, War against the Walking Dead, is going to be released this summer through Severed Press. It's not really a follow up to the handbook and is a stand alone work. However, it does pick up some of the same themes...

What's different is that it's international in flavour – I have looked at the upcoming zombie war with many of the world's top ghoulish experts. There are comments in there from groups as far a field as Australia, the Philippines and China.

War against the Walking Dead is, I believe, the first comprehensive guide to taking a country back from the rotting claws of the zombies. It's not a survival guide; it's a fight back guide.

It's diverse and covers everything from the latest scientific updates on the walking dead to a full blueprint on how to develop an anti-zombie military force including militia, navy and air force.

I have managed to get some top experts in on areas such as firearms and there is a section on the kind of survivor groups you will encounter which should scare even the hardest zombie fighter – it won't just be the ghouls you need to be afraid of!

Some of the illustrations are going to blow your mind! Other projects on the cards include next project, which will be a twisted book currently titled A Zombie History of Europe – stay tuned for that in 2012.

Also, I am working with the talented John McCuaig on an exciting novel set in the world of the Ministry of Zombies – it's title Meta-horde as is coming along very nicely. John is the much-respected author of The Church – which is a brilliant zombie novel.

COWBOYS AND ZOMBIES ON DVD

Rene Perez's zombie western COWBOYS & ZOMBIES is being released on DVD in the UK on 1st August. The film has been described as "like Deadwood... with zombies".

Set in 1849, it follows a bounty-hunter in the old west's Jamestown, who gets more than he bargained for when he finds the town over-run by zombies - victims of a virus unleashed by a meteor found in the gold rush.

Cowboys and native Indians unite to fight the undead horde, as guns blaze and mutants grow in this showdown for survival in the weird wild west.

Director Rene Perez said: "We have a gun slinger bounty hunter and an Apache Warrior, and although they are afraid of the zombies, they fight back in a big way. Our story starts with a group of gold miners cracking open an ancient meteor, hoping to find emeralds but all they get were alien spores which mutated them into ravenous zombies. Our zombies/mutants are faster and stronger than humans. They just aren't as smart"

Left Films is distributing the film in the UK, which is now available for on Play.com and Amazon UK.

RESIDENT EVIL

OPERATION RACCOON CITY

A collaboration between Capcom and Vancouver based studio Slant Six Games, is scheduled for release this Winter. This latest offering will take the series in a completely new direction and offer a style of gameplay yet to be seen from the franchise. It is September 1998 and the action centres on the ill-fated Raccoon City and the horrific consequences of the deadly T-virus outbreak.

With a cover up required, Umbrella orders an elite team into Raccoon City to destroy all evidence of the outbreak and eliminate any survivors. Meanwhile the US Government has quarantined the city and dispatched its own team of elite soldiers to determine the source of the mysterious outbreak.

Players take on the role of an Umbrella Security Service soldier (U.S.S.), competing alone or in up to four player co-op in a battle against all the competing forces at play in Raccoon City.

Release date is Winter 2011...

horrorchannel

Zombie Movies on the Horror Channel September 2011 (Sky 319, 320 Virgin 149 and Freesat 138)

Summer is gone and Autumn's dark nights are quickly drawing in. Zombies will be marching across the channel during the next few months.

The grisly horror comedy Hideous hits Horror on the 5th at 9pm. A gang that collects deformed freaks of nature must band together with the FBI agents investigating them when their ghoulish specimens reanimate and viciously turn on them. This is followed by a movie of a more serious disposition at 10.55pm, Last Rites. When a meteor crashes in LA, two rival gangs and the watching police officers are infected by otherworldly spores and transform into flesh hungry fiends.

If you like your horror more apocalyptic then Days Of Darkness late on the 8th is for you. The flesh-eating walking dead have risen and taken over the planet, now a small mismatched group of survivors must take up arms before they're bitten clean off! Kevin Tenney's Brain Dead at 10.55pm on the 12th is another cult classic not to be missed. An alien infection creates a horrific horde of brain-munching zombies shuffling to the door of a deserted fishing lodge, where terrified and often naked victims await. Make a note for Monday the 20th at 9pm where you'll have another chance to catch the outrageous movie Zombie Women Of Satan. This blood-soaked British horror/comedy is chock full of guts, guns and girls! When you have a character named Pervo the Clown you know what to expect so tune in for lashings of nudity, gore and blood-splattered shocks from these curvy carnivores.

At the same time on the 22nd you can see Tony Todd in the atmospheric shocker Shadow: Dead Riot. In this uncompromising horror a jail that once held and executed the voodoo-practising serial killer, Shadow, is turned into a women's prison. But he and his zombie minions are resurrected.

Fancy a late night on Wednesday 28th? If so tune in at 00.55 for Dead Meat. When her friend is bitten by a surprisingly sprightly corpse and turns into a flesh-muncher, Helena flees for her life. Turns out mad cow disease turns humans into zombies. Who knew?

10,000 ZOMBIES IN ONE BOOK?

'Zombies come in all shapes and sizes – short, fat, tall, skinny, drippy, gooey and bloody. And I believe it is the ultimate dream of every red-blooded zombie fan to get in the mix and mess around with the body parts of these graven things... We love zombies! The more screwed up the better.' - Rob Zombie

The ultimate zombie fan's dream, 10,000 Zombies features a stunning collection of terrifying zombies in all their gruesome glory. Created by Emmy-nominated illustrator David Hartman, each terrifying character has been neatly hewn at the neck and waist, allowing you to flip the pages creating thousands of different zombies, all with their own accompanying story written by horror expert Alexander Cox.

Visit <http://tinyurl.com/zombielink> for an exclusive video! Foreword by Rob Zombie.

David Hartman has animated films for Disney, Warner and MTV. His work is collected in Mad Monster Mash: The Art of David Hartman.

Alexander Cox is a writer and script consultant. He has worked for Pathé Productions, Fragile Films and Universal Pictures on films such as Creep (2004) and The Descent (2005).

THE HORROR-BLE WORLD OF ZOMBIE MAKE UP

LESSONS IN MAKE UP FREE ZOMBIES

Making Zombies with Photoshop not VooDoo

As a devout Zombie aficionado and Photoshop artist, it was inevitable that two of my major interests would clash on occasion. Since my early days of digital tinkering, the great folks here at Zombie Times have supported me and my fiendish creations; now it's my turn to give a little back.

For my final university project, I built a site that teaches the art of photo manipulation, with particular focus on Horror, Sci Fi and Fantasy techniques. There's tonnes of Photoshop tutorial sites out there, so I wanted to offer something a little different; keeping a tight focus on creative techniques. I also wanted to cater for fellow Horror hounds and Sci Fi nuts.

Now, here's the juicy bit.. Our flagship walk-through series is titled 'Photoshop Zombie' and outlines a series of techniques that can be used to create top-tier Zombies in Photoshop. The general concepts are universal, meaning the ideas can be transferred to traditional art, prosthetic design or make-up effects and photography. Be Greg Nicotero, but without the budget! The power of the software is pretty much limitless. If your a budding photo manipulator, head on over to SurrealPSD to check out the tutorials and see how it's done or even give it a go yourself.

THE HORROR-BLE WORLD OF ZOMBIE MAKE UP

Emma Alexander Watts

Hello to all,

If you fancy looking at my website (link below) there is a little journey through my work in hair & makeup along with prosthetics & creature creation, which I got into professionally after training at 'Greasepaint School of Makeup' and 'Gorton Studios'.

When I'm not designing and creating make ups, I'm creating creatures and sculpting. I have included some of these images, under the heading "Sculpture", to give you a broad overview of who I am and where I come from as an artist. Whether straight corrective makeup, from high fashion to gore and all the fun bits in between, I take on any and every challenge that's presented to me professionally and without drama. Making people feel comfortable in the makeup chair is just as important as a stunning makeup result.

...AND I Do love horror and the odd zombie! Did a promo event for the Walking Dead TV series which is on there, plus a skateboarding zombie for Peanut FX among other bits... some taxidermy creations in collaboration with Reid Peppard... plus I have just wrapped as makeup and hair designer for Strippers vs Werewolves feature in which Robert Englund cameos....looking for my next adventure! Enjoy looking around and if you have any questions or information I can help you with don't hesitate to contact me!

The latest News from around the Zombie World from www.Terror4fun.com

Gut-bustingly funny horror comedy TUCKER & DALE VS EVIL, is coming to cinemas on September 23 and DVD and Blu-ray on September 26.

TUCKER & DALE VS EVIL is a hilariously gory, good-spirited horror comedy, doing for killer rednecks what Shaun of the Dead did for zombies. Tucker and Dale are two good natured, best friends on holiday at their dilapidated mountain cabin. While there, they are mistaken for murderous rednecks by a group of obnoxious, preppy college kids who are camping in the same woods. When Tucker and Dale save the life of gorgeous student Allison (Bowden) her friends believe she has been kidnapped and set out to rescue her. As the chain of hilarious misunderstandings grows, so does the body count. www.facebook.com/TuckerandDale
